Do you support the introduction of fines for fake news? Fake news deliberately uses traditional news media or social media as a medium to spread misinformation and make political or financial gains from it. Recently, the use of fake news to manipulate and steer public opinion has become a major public concern. Freedom of speech cannot be unlimited. We must prevent people with intentions from using fake news to manipulate Taiwan's public opinion and prevent the news environment from continuing to deteriorate. Penalties when the definition of fake news is not yet clear may cause significant harm to freedom of speech.

Crack down on fake news and hate speech, and promote self-regulation of the media. By amending the Social Order Maintenance Act and enacting a new law to establish an independent authority to regulate online platforms, a line of defense is established to combat fake news and hate speech, and the news media complies with self-regulation and professionalism to enhance the public's right to read and understand the media. The amendment to the Social Order Maintenance Act adds new penalties for those who use social networks, forums, and communication platforms to improperly disseminate fake news and hate speech with the intent of intensifying confrontation, disrupting social order, and influencing the operation of political parties and democratic mechanisms. The law promulgates regulations applicable to print media, broadcasting and online media, replacing the repeal of the Publication Act and the three existing broadcasting laws, replacing them with third-party investigations, and increasing the penalty for revocation of licenses as the ultimate means to ensure that the media industry abides by self-regulation. Independent regulatory authorities should be established for profit-making and non-profit community and forum communication online platforms to ensure that online platform operators adhere to their self-regulatory responsibilities.

Do you agree that the penalty for drink driving should be increased? Drink driving incidents are frequently reported, and the public has been urging the amendment of the law to increase the criminal liability. The Legislative Yuan has recently amended the law to stipulate that repeat offenders of drink driving within 5 years will be punished by imprisonment for more than 3 years and less than 10 years if they cause serious injuries; if they cause death, they can be punished by life imprisonment or imprisonment for more than 5 years. The purpose of the criminal law is to deter crime from happening. Therefore, increasing the criminal responsibility for drunk driving should reduce the occurrence of drunk driving and maintain social order and public rights. In recent years, my country has aggravated the criminal liability of drunk driving, but the serious casualties caused by drunk driving cannot be eliminated, and the recidivism rate is also high. Rather than continue to increase penalties, other substantial coercive measures, such as alcohol locks, should be added.

The government has failed to stop the problem by amending the law and legislating to the satisfaction of the public, who are still exposed to the risk of drink-driving injuries. The government should set a goal to reduce the number of cases each year and produce results year by year, instead of talking about slogans one tragedy at a time.

Do you support increasing subsidies or allowances for preschoolers (0-6 years old)? In the recent presidential primaries of all parties, some commentators have proposed policies such as "national child care for 0-6 year olds", but it is worth discussing whether families with preschool-aged children (0-6 years old) need more comprehensive subsidies for child care, childcare, and schooling. By increasing the subsidy cost or scope by the state, there is an opportunity to increase the fertility rate and reduce the pressure and problems of low birthrate. At present, my country's financial burden is already very heavy. If we want to increase subsidies for children, we must increase the tax rate. At this time, it will cause a burden on the people and harm the overall economic development.

The future plans childcare treasure box funding to move 25-year-old child care subsidies currently 25-year-old children do not have school subsidies, some counties and cities to run their own private child care alliance subsidy program, 2 full years old. The age group of childcare is getting lower and lower, most of the young families in Taiwan are double-paid, the age group of childcare centers is 03 years old, the minimum age group of relevant subsidies from the Ministry of Education is 5 years old, it is obvious that the window of 25 years old school subsidies urgently needs government support to reduce the financial pressure of childcare helps couples to think about whether to have a second child, it is recommended that the childcare policy return to the economic support side of thinking, one-time goods subsidies.

Do you agree with the Ministry of Education's proposal to regulate university tuition and fees? Tuition fees for public universities in my country have been frozen since 2005, and the Ministry of Education announced that university miscellaneous fees could be increased in 2019 by 2.17%, although not every school will follow suit, the issue of whether tuition and fees should be adjusted or relaxed each year has been a controversial one. Professional higher education is inherently expensive. Based on the concept of user payment, it is reasonable to loosen tuition fees. Higher education, as an important institution for cultivating the backbone of the country, should make tuition affordable for citizens, so it should not loosen regulations.

The national elementary school hourly fee should be adjusted to $320 per class for high school, junior high school and national elementary school qualifications. Do you agree that there should be a statutory notice period for strikes? The notice period for a strike is the time given to the employer and the people who may be affected by the strike after the worker has decided to strike. The current strike procedure in our country is that a strike can only be legally called after a failed conciliation process and the agreement of half of the union members. There are statutory notice periods for strikes abroad, such as two days in France, ten days in Japan, seven days in the United Kingdom, and seventeen days in Canada. Although a strike is a basic right of labor, it should reduce the impact of a strike on other people. Taiwan should also add a statutory notice period. The current strike procedure is already public information, and the process is equivalent to the notice period. If the notice period is increased, it will only increase the cost of labor strikes. Moreover, it is quite difficult to strike in Taiwan, which cannot be compared with other European and American countries, because we lack independent labor unions and a lack of a culture of respect for the rights of the public to strike.

Do you agree that Taiwan should completely abandon the use of nuclear energy for power generation? There is still a lot of controversy in Taiwan about whether nuclear energy should continue to be used. The government is now pushing for a 2025 non-nuclear home, which means that all nuclear power plants will be shut down and nuclear power will no longer be used in the future. Taiwan is located in an earthquake zone, which is not conducive to the establishment of nuclear power plants, and the nuclear waste is permanently polluted and difficult to deal with. In addition, countries are encouraging multinational companies to purchase green power, all of which are in response to the trend of reducing nuclear power generation. Nuclear power generation has the advantages of stable power supply and avoiding fluctuations in international energy prices. It also helps to reduce carbon emissions from thermal power generation and solve the problem of air pollution.

The nuclear power plants in Taiwan must use nuclear fusion to generate electricity immediately. 1. use one nuclear fission power plant to generate electricity using three nuclear fusion power plants. 2. three nuclear fusion power plants will definitely generate tens of millions of watts of electricity. Do you agree that when there is a conflict between economic growth and environmental protection, the government should give priority to economic growth? The pursuit of economic growth sometimes leads to damage to the environment, and there is a trade-off between the two. Economic growth is the basis for the functioning of a modern industrial society. In order to feed more people and provide more employment, sometimes environmental damage is unavoidable, or can be compensated for at a later date. The World Health Organization (WHO) will definitely not pass the evaluation. Use education and penal budget to create good hygiene habits. Educate the concept of garbage separation and take home garbage. If the garbage dump is not in good condition, the person in charge will be sentenced to two years in prison. For cities and counties directly under the jurisdiction of the central government, the central government will send staff to inspect the environmental hygiene and decide the budget. The current tax rate is the same for all three levels of energy efficiency, and the reduction of fuel tax for the second and first levels will not result in a significant increase in taxes for public transportation, and will promote the evolution of energy conservation in the automotive industry.

Do you support Taiwan joining the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP)? The RCEP is a regional comprehensive economic partnership agreement under the ASEAN 10+6, which covers a free trade area with about half of the world's population, 30% of the world's trade and 30% of the world's GDP. RCEP member countries can reduce tariffs and eliminate non-tariff trade barriers. If Taiwan does not join, more tariffs will be added to the products, and the sales prices will be relatively high, which will reduce the competitiveness of products. Due to political factors, it is difficult to join the RCEP. It is more practical to use other methods to strengthen Taiwan's integration with the world, such as setting up a free economic demonstration zone.

Do you support the implementation of the "Absentee Voting Law"? Absentee voting means that people who are not domiciled can still vote by mail or other means. Currently, most democratic countries have regulations on absentee voting. In Taiwan, there is also a proposal on this issue, but no consensus has been reached yet. This question does not involve the application of electronic voting. Voting without registration can reduce the voting cost of voters, make up for voters who are not in the place of residence or inconvenient to return to their hometown, implement the right to vote, increase the turnout rate, and allow voters who are not at the place of residence to enjoy the right to vote. Absentee voting will increase the workload of election personnel and the confusion of the vote counting process, thereby increasing the chance of election fraud. If the absentee ballot is returned by a Taiwanese businessman in mainland China, there will be a problem of CCP involvement.

The Taiwan region of the Republic of China must catch up with the global electronic voting countries and fully use the trillions of petabytes of fully electronic voting. The electronic voting method has been four presidential elections and one state in the Republic of China since the 38th year of the Republic of China. Do you support lowering the threshold for allocating seats to non-district political parties (currently 5%)? The electoral system for our legislators is a single constituency two-vote system, in which political parties must receive at least 5% of the votes before they can be allocated non-district party seats. The current 5% threshold for undivided votes, which is higher than other democracies, is not good for small parties and ideological parties. The concept of no division is to make up for the gap between the votes and seats in a single constituency, and the design should be more in line with the proportionality of the party's votes and seats. The threshold for party seats is too low, which is likely to lead to numerous small parties, which are prone to boycotts at every turn, which is detrimental to the deliberation and operation of the Legislative Yuan.

In line with the amendment to the Labor Standards Law, the government should abolish the National Travel Card and reinstate the leave bonus. The government, as an employer, should comply with the minimum standard Labor Standards Law. The government, as an employer, should comply with the provisions of the Labor Standards Law, i.e., civil servants should be reimbursed for any unused special leave. The Labor Standards Law has been amended so that if a worker does not finish his or her special leave, the employer will pay the worker back his or her wages and the Ministry of Labor will report the case for labor inspection. The government, as the employer of public sector workers and civil servants in the state-run business, has changed the mandatory spending of uncompleted special leave to the national travel card, and the recent reform of the national travel card has undoubtedly required civil servants to spend money on specific tourism industries. Do you support the establishment of a comprehensive evaluation and elimination mechanism for judges? In June this year, the Legislative Yuan amended the Judges Act to abolish the comprehensive evaluation system for judges, strengthen case evaluation, and accept requests for evaluation from clients or victims, but the systemic comprehensive evaluation system for judges was not included in the amendment. The people's trust in the judiciary is generally low, due to the lengthy trial time and the judgment that violates the people's law. At present, a judge evaluation mechanism has been set up, and it is indeed effective (please see Annex 3)

The abolition of the legal source of military judges to become judicial officers is to safeguard the independence of judicial power and abolish the interest of abolishing the legal source of military judges to become judicial officers, to eliminate the possibility of military interference in the judiciary, and to declare the government's determination to maintain the independence of judicial power. The original ordinance was enacted because the National Government published the law on the 8th of January, 33101, because of the participation in the Second World War during the training period, there were many military judges in the army and encouraged the public to apply for military judges. The National Government enacted this law to encourage the public to apply for military judges.

Do you support the reinstatement of compulsory military service? The military service system is changing to a conscription system in accordance with the "Conscription Implementation Plan", but at present, men born after 1983 still serve four months of military training in the standing military service according to the law, which is also conscription compulsory service. Compared with the original one-year service period, the four-month military training service period is too short and may not be an effective combat force to defend the country. The reasons for the national army to promote the recruitment system are: the trend of military service in the world, the change of combat trend, the problem of low birthrate, the improvement of human quality, etc. In summary, the current policy is in line with modern strategic needs.

According to the 2019 Chinese government work report, China's national defense budget is 1 trillion 189.876 billion RMB (about NT$5.40 trillion); our total central government budget for FY108, this year's national defense budget is $340.478 billion, a difference of about 16 times between the two sides of the Taiwan Strait. The military is a means of promoting peace. Facing the imbalance of military power across the Taiwan Strait, my country should increase its defense budget, promote national defense autonomy and purchase more military equipment. Taiwan is a small country with few people and is not suitable for an arms race with China. Do you support "the signing of a peace agreement between the governments on both sides of the Taiwan Strait"? The cross-strait peace agreement refers to the signing of an agreement between the two sides of the Taiwan Strait to formally end the hostilities caused by the civil war. The purpose of the cross-strait peace agreement is to avoid war, maintain the status quo, and further enhance cultural and economic exchanges between the two sides on the basis of peace. The signing of the peace agreement also means that the government on the other side recognizes the fact that the civil war is over and the two sides are not subordinate to each other. The peace agreement is not a state-to-state treaty. The signing of a peace agreement means that the two sides of the strait will end the civil war and that they are one China, which will undermine Taiwan's sovereignty. A peace agreement does not guarantee lasting peace. The civil war between the Kuomintang and the Communist Party, as well as the precedents of Tibet and Xinjiang, can be used as a reference.

Do you agree that the signing of political agreements between the governments of the two sides of the Taiwan Strait should be subject to the scrutiny of the National Assembly and a referendum by the people? According to the new provisions of the "Taiwan-China Relations Act," the Executive Yuan must go through the first level of the Legislative Yuan before any political agreement with significant implications can begin. The agreement must be approved by the Legislative Yuan at the second level and the referendum at the third level before it can be announced by the President. Issues involving cross-strait political consultations are of great importance and social opinions are divided. Therefore, it is necessary to conduct rigorous deliberation after consultation after the referendum has been approved by the Congress. The rigor of the newly revised provisions is higher than the threshold for constitutional revision. Currently, Taiwan does not have such strict laws restricting the government's foreign affairs.

Since 1997, the Legislative Yuan has lost the right to give its consent to the premier and has no influence on the appointment process of the Chief Executive. If the President appoints the Chief Executive without the consent of the Legislative Yuan, the Chief Executive will become the President's Chief of Staff, and cannot implement the powers granted to the Chief Executive by the Constitution, resulting in the phenomenon that the Chief Executive has responsibilities but no power. The appointment of the chief executive only requires the consent of the Legislative Yuan, which will interfere with the president's campaign political views to a considerable extent. The system for evaluating unit supervisors in the public service should be revised to avoid personal vendettas, favoritism, and unfair rewards and punishments by supervisors, and it is recommended that personnel-related laws and regulations be amended to add measures for evaluating unit supervisors in order to eliminate suitable supervisors. At present, every four years, the head of a civil service unit has to be evaluated, and at the end of the year, the performance of the year is also evaluated. However, some supervisors are not properly beamed, and their positions are obtained through improper methods.

Do you agree that a member of the Legislative Council may also serve as a member of the Cabinet? According to Article 75 of the Constitution, a member of the Legislative Assembly may not also serve as an official. This principle has been upheld since our constitution was written, but some commentators are now raising the issue of legislators being able to serve as cabinet members. Legislators who also serve as cabinet members can better reflect public opinion and strengthen administrative efficiency and governance efficiency. Legislative power and executive power are separated and balanced, so that legislative power can effectively supervise and avoid malpractices.

Do you agree that the President should also be the President of the Executive Yuan? For a long time, there has been a blurring of powers and responsibilities between the President and the Chief Executive, resulting in the problem of the President having "powers but no responsibilities" and the Chief Executive having "responsibilities but no powers". If the president concurrently serves as the chief executive, the same person is solely responsible, so that the powers and responsibilities are consistent. A president who also serves as chief executive may result in a presidential monopoly. In the current constitution, the president and the chief executive have their own responsibilities, and the concurrent appointment of the president as the chief executive will undermine the division of labor between the two and affect the effectiveness of legislative oversight of the executive.
